Title: Exercise Device Portable Abdomen Reducer

To: L. Amerson, Art Unit 3764, Application/Control Number: 10/672,020

I claim:

1. (Currently Amended) An exercise device that attaches under a door, at the foot of a bed or other stationary anchors and is primarily used to aid a person doing sit-ups in order to reduce the abdomen, but is also of benefit to other muscles of the human body, which exercise device has a handle attached to a tether made of chain or other suitable material, which attaches to a foot retainer to hold down the feet which attaches under the door via the door anchor assist or other suitable anchors.

2. (New) An exercise device that attaches to the top of a door, or other overhead stationary anchors in order to aid a person in doing pull-ups which enhances the muscles of the arms, but is also of benefit to other muscles of the human body, said exercise device has a handle attached to a tether made of chain or other suitable material, which attaches over the door via the door anchor assist, or to other suitable anchors via a rope anchor assist.

3. (New) An exercise device that attaches to stationary anchors on the floor to aid in sit-ups or to anchors overhead to aid in pull-ups that is easily transported by hand, in a small bag, in luggage or other conveyances from one point to another so that the device can be constantly available to the user.
